2015 Annual Report

Editorial

We would like to close 2015 by expressing our gratitude for your participation and support which has helped improve children's health across the world.

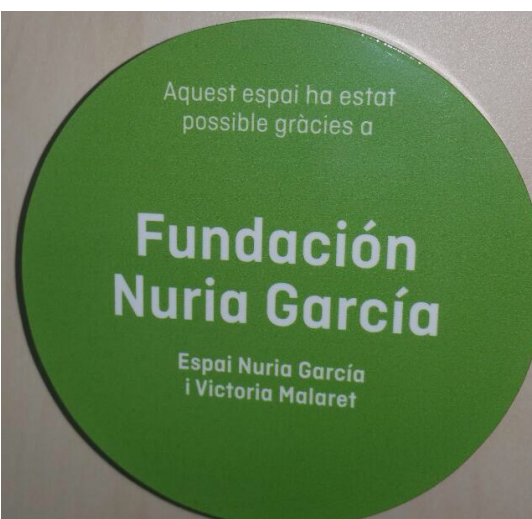

Thirteen projects in 2015 have benefited thousands of children in 4 continents and 9 countries from Syria to Latin America, through Spain and Africa, as detailed in our annual report.

In line with our mission, we have supported building health centers, financing food grants and nutrition packs in Spain, purchasing anti-malaria kits in Africa and shipping milk for infants to refugee camps in Syria.

We are very pleased with the impact on society. An increasing number of persons and entities are working with our projects, volunteering, proposing new initiatives or making donations.

One of the most remarkable initiatives in 2015 has been the Nuria García Foundation Junior Tennis Circuit, set up with the aim of fund raising and promoting awareness among young tennis players about the importance of helping children in need in their environment.

Thanks to your help in 2015, the Foundation has increased its support to thousands of children, transforming their present and future.
